So if this gets on the ballot, it is a high likelihood that it will pass, and then somebody will come back next year and say well the people had mandated and ordered us to come up with this program and we will pass a law next year which does exactly what we say we are letting the people vote on now and end up with all these problems, and so what I am saying is simply I think that this is something that I think that we shouldn't be putting upon county officials, something we shouldn't be putting into the Constitution, and above and beyond all of these arguments is a very simple and practical fact of life is that I come from northeast Nebraska, I come from cow country, and they do not want this particular bill and this is an election year, Senator Syas.
